I got a flowerpot for Aunt Linda.

What is giftid?

How does it work?

Etc etc etc

tag is here if we have an email address or user name. if all we have is email, it displays that as user. (tag can expand horizontally for more text? how long can email addresses be?)

packages drop with each entry saved can change to someone else! ex: child's wish list. what happens if more than one person? autosuggest from past entries click plus to open page area for adding details: upload pic, date, notes & tags, URL, needs a thank-you note, not yet bought, ...

info is displayed until something is added

What is giftid?

How does it work?

Etc etc etc

just a text field? one gift per entry.

also more than one possible--autosuggest based on past entries (later maybe pull from contact list) clicking this makes red part slide up --> state 2 info in boxes is held in case user comes back to it

URL display may change later because this is messy--thinking about how to make editable

on clicking, field switches to text entry and can be edited (notes and tags are all one field)

gifts are displayed in list (most recent on top) as user adds gifts and clicks save.

might want to give option to let them play with it without submitting email, but then we need interface reminder that their information will not be saved.

Can we have user accounts be possible but optional? Links are good if you don't mind searching email, but it would also be nice to visit the site and access your info without having to search email. Link to Facebook or other service would also work.

we should store the date of entry anyway, but this makes it editable. default is current day. pop up calendar if non-obnoxious.

got/want to get and for/from are still just switches--click to change one to the other default display is everything, with most recently added on top

URL display may change later clicking this makes top slide down --> state 1

search by whatever (reference Simple): tags, names, amounts, etc

If the "I got" line is really long, it eventually breaks and goes to new line, elongating item. same for notes.

info still available at bottom of page (what, how, etc).

buuuut what if the list is really long? hmm

If the "I got" line is really long, it breaks and goes to new line, elongating item. same for notes.

how do we get to the info panel(s)?

by searching for name? by clicking on a name in an item? by clicking sort by person? (not on mockup)

see wireframe state 2

how are people different from tags? they have associated info click person's name to edit info. unless we link to Facebook, info includes birthday, address, what else is necessary?

clicking on name also filters the gift list on the left to only show gifts involving that person when name is clicked, other names gray out one day I'd like to send birthday reminder emails
